Virtual Youth Month a Success for Park City Credit Union

MERRILL, WISC. – Every April marks National Credit Union Youth Month where credit unions across the country encourage kids to develop healthy savings habits by making savings fun and exciting.

Despite the challenges of COVID-19, Park City Credit Union conducted several online initiatives, including a contest aimed at sharing and charitable giving. Children were asked to write about a local organization in their community that is making a difference. Siblings Amara and Leo Lazare both wrote about Food For Kids and the work they are doing to help youth in the Merrill Area.

As winners of the contest, a $100 donation to Food For Kids was made by Park City in their name.

“This is an exciting event to help children learn the value of savings at an early age,” said Park City CEO Val Mindak. “We were thrilled to see so many young people learn about adopting healthy savings habits. It is an important foundation for reaching their financial goals now and in the future.”
